

Danny's School Day

Yesterday, Miss Ho asked the 6A students to think of their future jobs during the English lesson. They needed to write a composition about their dream job. Just then, the bell rang and it was time to have recess.

At recess, Tim and Danny were chatting together about the homework. "I want to be a firefighter when I grow up. It is very meaningful," said Tim. "I want to be a social worker when I grow up because I am caring and understanding but I don't like working in an office. It sounds boring," replied Danny.

After school, they walked together. On the way home, they saw a tour guide who was bringing a lot of people to the History Museum next to their school. Danny exclaimed, "Wow! Being a tour guide must be interesting. If I become a tour guide, I will visit many different countries." Tim nodded with a big smile.

The next day, Miss Ho showed the students the excellent compositions, including the work from Tim and Danny. Tim and Danny were happy. They both read their compositions to the class. The students clapped their hands with excitement. Tim and Danny were very delighted. They celebrated later by eating yummy food in the fast food shop. They were both proud of their work.
